

Anandeeta GURUNG

EDOCODE

Product Manager

Anandeeta Gurung is a Product Manager at EDOCODE Inc, Japan. She is a PhD graduate from Tohoku University (2016-2019). Her research included estimating and analyzing the metabolism of rivers in Japan. Before coming to Japan for her research, she was working at the United Nations Office for Project Services (UNOPS) for a project related to the reconstruction of houses due to the great Nepal earthquake 2015. Besides this, she also has the experience of working as a magazine writer in a publication house in Nepal writing about local culture, gardening and lifestyle in general.

Currently, as a product manager, she works for the improvement of the shopping websites by communicating between EDOCODE and its stakeholder company, analyzing data, proposing better solutions to clients together with engineers and designers. She enjoys managing projects and participating in lean methodologies to create better products and services.