Dr. Akiyoshi Yonezawa is Professor and Vice-Director of International Strategy Office, and a Special Advisor for the President, at Tohoku University, Japan. With a background in sociology, he mainly conducts research on comparative higher education policy – especially focusing on world-class universities, internationalization and public-private relationships in higher education. He established his expertise in higher education policy and management through working experience at Nagoya University, OECD, Hiroshima University and the University of Tokyo. He is a board member at Japan Association for Higher Education Research and at Japan Comparative Education Society, and a national delegation of the Group of National Experts on Higher Education for OECD. He is also actively contributing international research publication, e.g. as an editorial advisory board member of Higher Education and International Higher Education. He is also one of the book series editors of Higher Education in Asia (Springer). His recent co-edited book Researching Higher Education in Asia (Springer, 2018) was granted the “Best Book Award 2019” from Comparative and International Education Society (SIG Higher Education).
