

Atsushi Ezura is an Associate Professor of Sanjo City University and a Visiting Associate Professor of Keio University, a Visiting Research of Advanced Manufacturing Technology Institute (AMTI) of Kanazawa University and a Visiting Research of the Institute of Physical and Chemical Research (RIKEN). He received Ph.D. in Engineering from Keio University in 2017. He worked at Tochi Prefecture Industrial Technology Center as a researcher and AMTI of Kanazawa University as an assistant professor. Since 2022, he has been in current position. He is working on areas of laser surface modification and additive manufacturing. He received several honors, including the encouragement award of the Japan Society for Abrasive Technology (JSAT) in 2018 and the young researcher award of 8th LEM21.