

Research and development of IoT wireless high efficiency wide area network scanning technology for effective frequency utilization

To scan the network with high efficiency and wide area against the global IP address nationwide assigned to IoT equipment, we will develop wide area network scanning technology to automatically estimate frequency usage status and wireless communication traffic mitigation technology of wide area network scan, thus drastically reducing network scan traffic compared with existing technology.

